DETAILED ACTION

1. Claims 14 is pending in this application.

Response to Amendment

2. The 35 USC 102 rejections over Kaneko and Trausch have been withdrawn as a result of the applicant's amendment.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

3. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

4. Claim 14 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Kubota (US 6,340,558).
5. A photoresist is deposited using a spin coater to form photoresist layer 20. Substrate 12 is placed in a projection aligner and exposed through a reticle to transfer a pattern image to the photoresist. After exposure, photoresist layer 20 is developed to form a pattern or mask layer 22. Figure 5 illustrates the photoresist pattern having an opening at the protruding portion. See col.6, l.25-37. As can be seen in Fig. 5, the protruding portion of the pattern (fine line) has a narrowed width portion at the end which is smaller than the width of the portion adjacent to the narrowed width portion. The pattern also has a section including a cut or opening in the normal to the substrate.

The photoresist pattern is longer in length on the end which is farthest from the substrate. Therefore the pattern has a section comprising a part having whose length, in a parallel direction to the substrate away from the substrate side end, is longer than the length of the part in a parallel direction on the substrate side end.

Response to Arguments

6. Applicant's arguments with respect to claim 14 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.

Conclusion

7. Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
